

My missional dream is to inspire and empower individuals to discover their unique God-given gifts and passions, equipping them to actively engage in compassionate service and meaningful contribution within their communities. I envision a world where each person recognizes their inherent value as image-bearers of God and embraces their role in co-creating a society characterized by love, justice, and flourishing.

Goals for the week:

Complete the outline for the upcoming workshop on personal growth and self-discovery.
Connect with at least three individuals to offer mentorship or support in their personal or professional development journey.

To Do list for the week:

- Outline workshop content and activities (due by Wednesday).
- Research and compile resources for workshop participants (due by Friday).
- Schedule mentorship meetings with three individuals (due by Thursday).

Appointments:

- Mentorship meeting with Coach: Wednesday, 10:00 AM
- Workshop planning call with team: thursday, 3:00 PM

Review

This week, I am grateful for the opportunity to connect with a friend I hadn't seen in years. Catching up over coffee reminded me of the importance of nurturing relationships and the joy that comes from meaningful connections.

I loved spending time outdoors this week, taking long walks in the park and soaking in the beauty of nature. I wish I could prioritize outdoor activities more often as they bring me a sense of peace and rejuvenation.

One task I didn't enjoy this week was dealing with administrative paperwork for a project. I wish I never had to spend so much time on administrative tasks and could focus more on the creative and meaningful aspects of my work.

A difficult problem I encountered this week was navigating a disagreement with a colleague regarding project priorities. We had different perspectives on how to proceed, which led to tension and frustration.

To address the problem, I initiated an open and honest conversation with my colleague, actively listening to their concerns and perspective. We were able to find common ground and compromise on a solution that satisfied both parties.

I experienced God's presence this week during a moment of quiet reflection and prayer. Amidst the busyness of life, I felt a sense of peace and reassurance, knowing that God is with me in every situation.

This week, I learned that I thrive in environments where I can collaborate with others and engage in meaningful conversations. I also discovered that I have a tendency to avoid conflict, but I am learning to lean into discomfort and address issues directly.

In terms of God's mission and my place in it, I learned that God equips and empowers us to navigate challenges and conflicts with grace and wisdom. My role is to seek reconciliation and pursue peace, trusting in God's guidance and provision every step of the way.